

Volunteer for the Youth!

Join with Center for Resolutions and your local police department.

Center for Resolutions is looking for volunteers to take part of the Youth Aid Panel Program in your community.

The community volunteers will be helping the youth in their community:

- By preventing them becoming more deeply involved with negative behaviors;
- Learning the cause of the offense and help the family address the underlying problems;
- Provide amicable resolution for the victim;
- Increase accountability and responsibility of the youths for their actions; and
- Hold the juvenile responsible to both the victim and their community through their obligations.

After a training provided by Center for Resolutions, the volunteer will attend one (1) panel meeting a month with the youths who have been referred to the program by the local police department. The youth is required to acknowledge their involvement with a first-time summary or misdemeanor offense.

We invite all residents over the age of eighteen (18) to support the youth in their community.
